What Is Proper on These Occasions.

Editorial in New York Herald. By the way, apropos of weddings, the Herald has received the following letter:

about church weddings, and we leave the decision to you. He says a person can take any seat he likes at a wedding. I hold that you must sit where the usher places "Is it considered impolite to stare at the bride as she comes down the aisle? Another pair of gloves on this. Can you go it is more or less a public place, or card always necessary? More gloves. "Is a bride restricted to carrying a bouventional. Can't I carry something else? Is it customary to announce where you are going for your wedding trip and also an-hounce your return? Please, Mr. Editor, answer and oblige a debutante. (Card in-
